Nurses withdraw services STRIKE

By Phil Courterelle

Nurses at the Drayton Valley and Evansburg health units joined seven other provincial units in strike action Monday to support demands for a wage increase.

The 18 nurses in the Alberta West Central Health Unit, which includes Edson, Hinton and Grande Cache, backed a strike vote taken March 23 by withdrawing services early Monday morning.

The nurses previously rejected a management board offer of a two per cent increase in 1986 and a one per cent increase in 1988. As well, the board included a clause to cut overtime pay.

No new offer from the board has been made nor were any meetings between the board and the nurses' bargaining agent, the United Nurses of Alberta (UNA), scheduled at press time.

'We probably would have accepted the offer if they (the board) hadn't thrown the hours at us' — nurse

As a result, the local health unit office will continue only with services not requiring nurses, such as the dental and speech programs as well as the general public health service.

Nursing supervisory staff will be able to cope only with emergency situations," the board said in a press release dated March 29.

The strike affects two nurses in Drayton Valley and two in Evansburg.

Some cases patients will not be affected in Drayton Valley.

The nurses, with the Alberta West Central Health Unit, have requested a wage hike of $160 per month this year and a cost of living increase in 1986. The nurses have accepted a zero per cent wage increase for their two previous one-year contracts.

According to at least one nurse it is the no overtime clause that is deterring the nurses from accepting the board's offer.

"We probably would have accepted the offer (one per cent this year, one per cent in the next) if they hadn't thrown the hours at us," community health nurse and UNA member Dianne Nikiforuk said Monday.

"It was a package deal and we refused it because of the hours."

The offer outlined random shifts from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the board's discretion to help avoid overtime costs, Nikiforuk explained.

"Since we rejected it, they (the board) have not seen fit to approach the bargaining table. We've approached them twice, once through Simon (Renouf, UNA executive director) and once through our own delegation," she said.

The unit's medical officer of health, Dr. Nicholas Baylis, who is negotiating for the board, made a similar "verbal offer" eliminating the overtime clause but nurses "never had it in writing (and) were unable to negotiate on it," Nikiforuk said.

"What we took a strike vote on was the complete package."

"We've asked for a cost of living increase which I don't think is unreal because we took zero increases for two years. If we'd asked for 12 or 15 per cent, then sure, I could see telling us to go jump in a lake," Nikiforuk said.

Baylis, who is attending a health unit conference in Edmonton, could not be reached for comment on the strike situation.

Nurses at seven other health units, meanwhile, also took strike action Monday. The nurses at these units are now seeking parity with their hospital counterparts which means a slight decrease in the UNA bargaining position.

The change was made to make the offer "more attractive" to the health unit boards involved in negotiations, UNA's Renouf said.

"We're prepared to show some flexibility on that issue (wages) if they are willing to show some flexibility on others," he said.

The UNA is still attempting to negotiate with the provincial Department of Social Services and Community Health which funds the approximately 25 health units in Alberta. So far, the department and its minister Neil Webber have refused to meet with UNA officials, Renouf said.

Lifeline system officially operating

A 13-month dream was realized last Sunday night at the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

Linda Thompson, president of Life Support, cut the ribbon ending a 13-month ordeal which now sees the lifeline system operating in the community.

"I didn't think we'd ever do it. There was so much red tape. People questioned what we were doing and there was lots of money to raise," Thompson commented after the official ribbon cutting.

But despite the hurdles, Thompson and her committee did an outstanding job, raising more than $20,000 to make the life support system a reality.

Three subscribers are already on the program with another eight on a screening list.

Lifeline is a personal emergency response program. It's a three-part system consisting of electronic equipment located in the home, an emergency response centre at the hospital and responders — people who agree to respond to personal calls.

"I thank the life support committee for bringing this much needed service to the community," stated Georganna Szala, director of patient services at the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

Donald Mayne of New Horizons told a group who attended the official opening last Sunday night, "I hope other communities will follow your lead."

Three Brandette workers burned in propane fire

By Carol Dietrich

Three local men are in stable condition in Edmonton's University Hospital after being burned in a propane furnace explosion March 26 at a work site about 11 km (seven miles) west of Violet Grove.

Murray Postnikoff, 24, of Breton and Len Scisinsky, 35, and Tim Urchysky, 21, both of Drayton Valley, received first- and second-degree burns to their hands, arms, face and upper body. The three, all employees of Brandette Well Servicing Ltd., were at the site to repair a pump for Roxy Petroleum.

"They went into the doghouse to change clothes in the morning and the furnace was out," said Gary Maistre, Brandette field supervisor.

"There was a propane leak and when one of the men was lighting a cigarette there was a flash fire."

All three got out of the doghouse on their own, he said, and a fourth man on the site drove them to the Drayton Valley hospital. They were transferred to Edmonton soon after.

The Drayton Valley fire department received the fire call about 5:27 a.m. but by the time they arrived at the site a Brandette employee had already put the fire out, said fire chief Sheldon Fuson.

Occupation Health and Safety representatives were at the site the same afternoon to begin their investigation, said Jim Houghton, department communications director.

"We're undertaking a routine investigation and view all incidents as serious."

"It's our business to find out what happened." Even though this is the third incident in four months in which local oilfield workers have been injured or killed, Houghton said he was not aware of any special inspections for the Drayton Valley area.

Field research initiated

April 30 deadline expected for new municipality study

By Phil Courterelle

The provincial government is looking towards an April 30 deadline for its financial study on a new Drayton Valley and area municipality following field research here two weeks ago.

As well, the study's head researcher, Ian Wight, expects to provide a preliminary report to county representatives at the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties convention in Red Deer this week.

Wight, manager of the policy and research division for the Department of Municipal Affairs said Friday researchers are "still hoping at the end of April to have a report available for the minister so it can be released publicly."

Municipal Affairs Minister Julian Kosak commissioned a study last fall into the financial feasibility of forming a new rural municipality around Drayton Valley which would include areas from Parkland, Leduc and Wetaskiwin counties and parts of Improvement District 14.

The second such inquiry in 1975, the study was prompted by a proposal to add two more councillors to the east end of Parkland County.

According to Wight, researchers had a successful "field trip" to the Drayton Valley area two weeks ago in which they discussed the study with town and county officials as well as several government services.

"We received a lot of good information (and) have a lot more to think about," Wight said, adding "we're trying to get as much information into the report as possible."

Researchers spoke with town and county councillors as well as the local Alberta Agriculture and Energy Resources Conservation Board offices.

Response to the report and the possibility of a new municipality being formed was subdued, Wight said.

"They (councillors) are basically holding their opinions until they've received the information. No one was advocating a change in the status quo. They're all waiting for more information," he said.

Although Wight was reluctant to release details from the study so far, he did say assessment figures showed a variety of possibilities exist in forming a new municipality from the areas involved, depending on the amount and cost of services desired by residents.

"Any combination of assessment would be feasible" in forming a new municipality, he said, but added "from a financial point of view, we might find it to be a bit expensive" to provide the necessary services in a Drayton Valley centered municipality.

"We need public input into that area (expected services) which is something that is not taken into consideration in this study."

"We really have to rely on local councils and councillors for that," he said.

Other areas of concern include school districts and the possibility of ID 14 becoming a county or municipal district.

Wight stressed the study is only preliminary and other studies, including the affect on school districts, would have to be undertaken before any final decision is made.

"We need a school option study definitely," Wight said, "we need to get into more realistically defined boundaries, taking into account school boundaries and service boundaries."

Wight has also been approached regarding the incorporation of Improvement District 14, which is partially included in the feasibility study.

"By giving too much to a Municipality of Drayton Valley, we could jeopardize incorporating ID 14," he said.

Interest in pool still enthusiastic

Attendance figures are impressive and revenue is up at the new Park Valley indoor swimming pool in Drayton Valley.

From opening day February 9 until the end of that month, attendance figures show that 7,000 people used the new sports facility. Similar figures are expected for the month of March.

Lifeline

The lifeline system now in place in Drayton Valley is the eighth in the province.

Many individuals, groups, organizations and businesses contributed to the end result. These include AGT who assisted in the hookups, Royal Canadian Legion, Purple Pansey Senior Citizens' Association, Order of the Royal Purple, BPO Elks 391, Senior Citizens of Drayton Valley, Drayton Valley School of Dancing, Bertha Zollkofes, Amoco, Olivines club, Fred and Adeline Duckett, Betty Starling, Marty Prentice, United Church Women and Ron Nikforuk.

"The budget pleases us and some patterns are starting to develop over the reaction to the programs," says recreation director Dennis Woolsey.

One of the very popular seasons is the early bird swim which has been expanded to three mornings a week between 6:30 a.m. and 8 a.m.

Pool users welcomed the addition of boot racks last week.

The town is also looking at a couple of plans to develop the front entrance. Woolsey says the plans call to enlarge the present front or add a multi-purpose room north of the existing entrance.

Still with swimming, Woolsey says a recent experiment that saw five visiting pee-wee hockey teams receive free passes to the pool didn't go over that well. "We didn't get the adult turnout we had hoped for," he stated.

Visiting teams at a weekend mite tourney were also given free passes.

Now, the recreation director will evaluate the situation and establish policy.

Opinions

Users should pay the bills not taxpayers

As a potential property owner and eventual taxpayer in Drayton Valley, I have concerns about who pays for what.

When they meet later this month the recreation board is expected to take a serious look at implementing a 'user fee' for ball and soccer.

According to recreation director Dennis Woolsey, the board will be asked to okay a user fee of $1.50 for youth and $3 for adult teams per facility used.

It will only pertain to the fields at West Valley Park.

While the practice is only expected to generate $2,000 from weekday games, it's a step in the right direction. That amount could climb if weekend games and tournaments were included. The host team would pick up the tab.

The users should be paying the bills. It's not fair to burden all taxpayers in Drayton Valley with the costs.

At the present time the town spends about $90,000 on parks and 30 per cent of their time is spent on parks. Every little bit that can be generated from other sources will help.

On the subject of users paying the bill, some action is needed in reference to the new Park Valley indoor swimming pool. The town and the County of Parkland are contributing to the deficit but the County of Leduc, the County of Wetaskiwin and Improvement District No. 14 contribute nothing.

Statistics show people from all three areas are big users of the facility. It would be unfortunate if the people were forced to pay higher rates just because the county refused to make a commitment.

A user fee is an accepted way of life in most communities. It's hoped the Drayton Valley Recreation Board will follow suit.

Tale of the scales means another diet

Can you imagine standing in line for 90 minutes to find out what you weigh?

That was the situation last Wednesday as Weight Watchers returned to Drayton Valley after a five-year absence.

Weigh-ins started at 6:30 p.m. and the last person stepped off the scales at 8 p.m. Weight Watcher organizers were overwhelmed at the response.

Eighty people turned out the first night.

The most surprising fact was that most of the people, 78 women and two men, were all smiling. One would think that after finding what the scales had to say they would be doing anything but smiling. Maybe they were less than figured or just glad to be back on a good program.

I can't say I was happy with the story of the scales, but I'm glad to get back on a routine.

Before stepping on the scales I secretly wrote down my weight. I was wrong. Instead of 237 the tale of the scales was 244.

So, my task is straightforward. In the next three months I hope to drop 44 pounds. Losing weight on Weight Watchers has never been a problem. My last success story was a 125-pound weight loss in seven months. But, things are different this time around.

My wife is still with the children in Red Deer. She was my 'right arm' whenever I was dieting.

I'm not fooling myself. This diet won't be easy. I was never great at preparing my own food. Cottage cheese, plain yogurt, ugh!

It's back to the scales tonight (Wednesday) for the start of what will hopefully be a steady weight loss.

The results in this space next week.

One thing about a group like Weight Watchers is the people.

I enjoy their quiet support and hope the articles in The Western Review will help others.

After last week's weigh-in, several of those at the meeting were observed at IGA loading up with fruit, skim milk, etc.

Some readers have been asking why the On The Street Opinions was dropped from the pages of the Review. Our reporters were hassled when asking questions, some even swung their purses and shoved our people out of their way. Often we had to interview 25 people just to get five opinions we could print. Others would call in the next day and ask us not to print their picture or comment.

Simply, our people were frustrated. And, the time can be better spent on other assignments.

A local sportsman was in the border town of Lloydminster last weekend. He bought a case of beer in Saskatchewan for $10.35 and later did the same in Alberta for $8.30. It was a costly experience just to find out things were cheaper in Alberta.

He should've known when he approached the Saskatchewan store. Their parking lot was empty and he was the only one in the store. Six blocks away it was hard to get near the front door of the Alberta store.

Richie Woods

Community mourns friend's passing

One of Drayton Valley's most respected citizens, Richard (Richie) Woods, was laid to rest last Friday.

Woods, principal at Frank Maddock High School in Drayton Valley for the past 18 years, passed away March 26.

Mass of the Christian Burial was said last Friday afternoon at the Res Plex at Frank Maddock High and was attended by more than 850 people, making it the largest funeral ever held in town.

The night before, more than 200 family and friends attended prayer service at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

He leaves to mourn his loving wife Dorothy; two sons, Greg of Drayton Valley and Ronald of Calgary; three daughters, Lori and her husband Jim Hamilton of Leduc, Maureen and Carolyn Woods of Edmonton; one granddaughter, Michelle Hamilton; two sisters, Dorothy Jager of Calgary and Virginia Westhaver of Houston, Nova Scotia. He was predeceased by his mother and father.

Father Martin Carroll officiated at a Mass of the Christian Burial. Interment followed in the Riverview Cemetery.

Long's Funeral Chapel in Drayton Valley in charge of arrangements.

Six members of the Drayton Valley Sports Club — Gene Harris, Bob Armstrong, John Clair, Alex Salfi, Alfred Armstrong and John Jensenroth acted as pallbearers.

Woods, 57, was born in Regina, Saskatchewan. His first teaching job was at St. Albans High School. Three years later he accepted a position as principal's position at Stony Plain. He moved to Drayton Valley in 1968 and started his family.

In the fall of '66 the Woods family moved to Drayton Valley where he became principal of Frank Maddock High School.

In a very emotional tone, Charlie Miner, a close friend of the Woods' told the crowd, "This has been the longest week in my life. I consider it a privilege to have been his friend. I will carry those memories with me for the rest of my life."

"He would drop anything to help a friend. He loved this town and its people," Miner added.

For the students in attendance, Miner said, "Next to his family, Richie loved this school. It was his second home. All the students who passed through the doors were his family. He fought with you and for you."

"He will always occupy a special place in my heart."

Until the end of the school year, vice-principal Allan Day will assume the role of principal at Frank Maddock High School as well as replace Woods in the county's principal association.

Regarding the school's operation, Day said Monday "the staff as a whole will pull together and look after the school's administration."

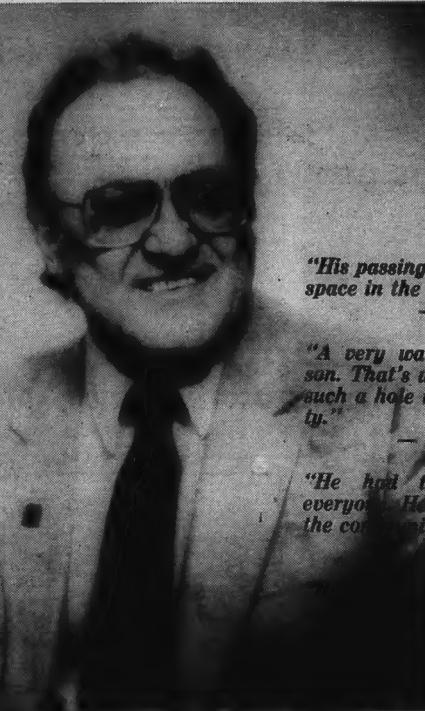

At an assembly Monday, Day asked students to also assist in helping the school through the difficult transition.

"The school has always been regarded as a family and a family pulls together in a time of crisis and this is a time of crisis," he said later.

Response to the R.H. Woods scholarship fund has been "excellent" Day said, surpassing $2,000 in private donations. The first award for the scholarship is expected for this year's graduation which means organizers will have to set down criteria in the near future.

"The scholarship is a fitting tribute to the man. Richie believed in the total education of everyone. He was just as happy seeing someone do well at typing as in math. It'll be tough to get criteria to fit that philosophy."

Donations to the scholarship fund can be made at the Treasury Branch in Drayton Valley, Box 900.

Energy deal

Drayton Valley economy gets boost

By Shirley Cripps, M.L.A.

I am delighted to be able to include brief details of the new energy agreement.

The four governments agreed the objectives of stimulating investment and job creation in the energy sector could be met in a regime of market sensitive pricing for oil and gas and based on profit sensitive taxation.

Three fundamental principles have been achieved.

1. Our crude oil production will receive market value for the first time in three years.
2. Oil and gas will receive the same treatment for taxation purposes as other Canadian industries — taxed on profits, not revenue.
3. Any federal incentives offered to Canadian oil and gas industry will apply right across Canada.

As of June 1 pricing and marketing of crude oil will be deregulated, at the same time export tax and petroleum compensation charge will be removed.

As well, under the terms of this Memorandum of Understanding, the federal government has committed itself to the immediate repeal of the Natural Gas and Gas Liquids Tax, the Natural Gas Export Tax, the Incremental Oil Revenue Tax, and the Canadian Ownership Special Charge, as well as the Oil Export Tax and the Petroleum Compensation Charge.

The PGRT has been dealt a sunset clause. It will be phased out by 1988. Commencing Jan. 1, 1985 the annual reductions of its effective rate will be from 10 to 8 to 6 to 0. There will be no PGRT on all new oil wells spudded after April 1, 1985.

I believe this agreement moves us a long way from the National Energy Program introduced in the October 1980 federal budget. The phase-out of the PGRT is not as rapid as we would have liked, but considering the federal deficit, it is probably as well as could be done. When 33 cents out of every federal tax dollar is spent on debt servicing — there is a desperate search for funds — Alberta's oil industry was the source.

I hope the new additional deduction for PGRT will be helpful in Drayton Valley, where much of the production is oil. I also hope this agreement will stabilize the Drayton Valley economy and encourage new activity.

The new agreement should benefit the oil industry.

Community bus association draws praise from user

Dear Editor,

I would like to say a big thank you to the Drayton Valley Community Bus Association for the tremendous service they have given our schools and our community.

I have made use of the association's buses for many school events such as ski trips, survival trips and athletic events to name a few, and quite honestly, believe the service and courtesy shown by the association is unparalleled.

The people in charge (who are all volunteers) seem to go out of their way to make any excursion a very pleasant one. The buses themselves are so superior to conventional school buses it's like comparing a Rolls Royce to a VW Beetle. I can't help but gloat when we pull into another school for a track meet and see students from other areas green with envy because they were not fortunate enough to ride a 'Greyhound'.

Cost is another reason the Community Bus Association should receive a 'pat on the back'. When pricing out transportation for a ski trip to Fortress, I found it was approximately the same price to take one Greyhound coach as it was to take all three community buses combined. (The price quoted for one Greyhound was from several large transportation companies which operate throughout the province).

I know the people involved with the Community Bus Association are certainly not looking for praise, however, they certainly deserve it when one considers the benefits reaped by various groups in this area.

Sincerely,
Wayne Tournour

QC-10 looks for new program ideas

By Carol Dietrich

The concept of locally produced television programs is foreign and perhaps a bit mysterious to many small communities.

And a lot of people tend to shy away from it. But the success of a community channel such as local QC-10 depends on community involvement, said James Heggie, QCTV Northwest Region Rural Community Animator.

"The channel is intended to reflect the character of the community," And that requires volunteers, he said. "I've got three now, but I could use 200."

Material can be almost anything you want it to be," But, he said, it can't be commercial advertising.

He is always looking for program suggestions and encourages people with ideas to pass them along. "People who want specific events covered, should give me three weeks notice."

Heggie is responsible for a large area, including Westlock, Barrhead, Drayton Valley, Edson and Jasper.

Drayton Valley material he is currently working on includes a behind-the-scenes look at the Park Valley Pool, the Chamber of Commerce Winter Carnival and a five-part "How to Quit Smoking" series.

At the job since Feb. 1, he is "up to my neck in video."

He has made a few changes in his first two months. "I've standardized the broadcasts."

In the past, material from one area was only seen in that particular area. "There is material that could benefit all the regions."

But, he assured, Edson town council meetings would not be seen in Drayton Valley.

He is working on getting regular broadcasts as well. Local broadcasts would be Wednesdays at 7 p.m. and continue for about four hours.

"And Drayton Valley town council meetings will be broadcast the weekend after they take place."

The rest of the time, the message board will appear on the television screen and alternate with BN news wire every 20 minutes.

Recreation messages should now be given to Heggie instead of the town office.

The reasons for the changes are simple. "My efforts are to make the community channel something people want to watch. I want to change its image."

And he stressed the benefits available to anyone willing to get involved with the channel by volunteering as little as 1/2 hour a week. "People can learn how to operate cameras, VTR and do editing."

The possibilities are endless. We have the benefit of equipment provided by QCTV," the Drayton Valley resident said.

People who want to get involved with the channel can contact Heggie at 542-2836 or write P.O. Box 1827, Drayton Valley.

Spring a time to watch out for kids

With the arrival of spring the local RCMP and fire department have a number of reminders for the public.

"Motorists have to keep a wary eye out for children on bikes," said Cpl. Tom Turner.

And children playing in parks and yards, who might chase after balls are a concern as well.

"The kids forget they are supposed to watch for vehicles."

"We are always concerned about the safety of kids," Turner added.

"People in town are not allowed to do any burning in their yards," said fire chief Sheldon Fuson. Burning is allowed outside town limits but only with a permit. "People need permits from April 1 to Oct. 31."

Spring cleaning to avoid fire hazards is very important, Fuson said.

"Cutting tall grass, cleaning up old junk and debris and a general spring cleanup lessens the danger of a fire starting and spreading."

And now is the time to clean fireplaces. "It's the end of the season for them and people should clean them so they will be clear in summer."

If this is done buildup inside the fireplace will not solidify and be so difficult to remove in the fall, he added.

This time of year brings thoughts of camping as well. "When people go camping they should heed where they are building the fire. It should be surrounded by black dirt."

"Think safety. Use common sense and consciously think about what you are doing," Fuson stressed.

Town, hamlet to receive sewer funding

Three water and sewage grants totalling $2,155,750 were announced Monday for Drayton Valley and Poplar Ridge.

Under the Alberta Municipal grant program, Drayton Valley will receive an estimated $726,000 to update their water treatment plant. This is the final phase of a three-phase water system improvement project started by the town in 1983.

An estimated $175,000 is also being provided to upgrade the capacity of the sewage treatment plant in Drayton Valley. This will also provide for internal growth and for the connection of Poplar Ridge to the system.

A further $1,254,750 has been allocated to assist the County of Parkland and the town with a sanitary sewer system and a water transmission line for Poplar Ridge. The water transmission line and trunk sewer portion of the sewage system will also serve part of the town.

The Alberta municipal water supply and sewage treatment grant program is designed to assist municipalities with the high cost of water and sewage projects.

Alberta Transportation to call for Highway 22 tenders

Alberta Transportation will call for tenders to carry out a major improvement project on Highway 22 in the Buck Lake area. Transportation Minister Marvin Moore, Ponoka MLA Halva Jonson, Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps have announced.

Town, arena closed during holiday

Many Drayton Valley residents are looking forward to a four-day weekend starting Thursday night.

All five schools will be closed from Thursday afternoon to Tuesday morning.

The Town of Drayton Valley will be closed Good Friday and also Monday. This also includes the Centennial Civic Arena. However, it will be business as usual at the Park Valley indoor swimming pool.

The post office, liquor store and provincial building will be closed Friday and Monday. However, the ALCB store will be open Saturday.

This major improvement project on Highway 22 from the junction of Highway 53 for 27 kilometres to the junction of Highway 13 involves base pavement construction. This first stage toward providing an ultimate paved surface will be followed in a future year's program with final paving.

Banks will observe the Good Friday holiday, but for the convenience of their customers will remain open until 6 p.m. Thursday and will also open Monday.

The business community will also close Friday, will remain open until 9 p.m. Thursday and will be open Monday.

The Western Review will also be closed Friday but it will be business as usual on Monday.

The project is scheduled for completion during the 1985 construction season.

"I welcome this major improvement project, which is a priority," said Jonson. He subsequently pointed out that Highway 22 is a major north-south corridor paralleling Highway 2 and that the local, resource-related and recreational traffic will benefit from this work.

Cripps expressed her pleasure in seeing this project proceed. "Highway 22 is an important route south for the people in the Buck Lake/Drayton Valley area."

Mites win

In their first year playing with the older, larger pee wee teams, local DV Meter came out on top winning the house league championship.

In the league's final tournament, DV Meter and Elks Pee Wee tied with 2-1 win/loss records but the mite team pulled ahead with a better points for and against record.

DV Meter's only loss came at the hands of the Elks when they fell to 10-8 decision. The mites came back to beat HI West 5-4 and Wide West 8-4.

Elks meanwhile, lost to Wide West 9-3 and beat HI West 6-4.

In Wide West's third game, they tied HI West 3-3 finishing 1-1-1.

Thinking of trout fishing in our area brings to mind pictures, thick with imagery, some of my favorite fishing moments.

My first two Brazeau River brown trout in the early spring of '82. The huge brown I lost fishing with the Cox brothers later that same year; the small but beautiful solitary trout I took fishing on the Baptiste one morning, where conditions were so perfect it felt like the scenario was being directed from above.

Moments like this have convinced me there are excellent trout fishing opportunities in our area. Although this area will never be the trout paradise northern B.C. is, for example, if you limit your expectations you will often be rewarded with many memorable experiences.

So, next time you're told there are only jackfish in our area, take the offending culprit to one of these fine trout waters:

Sardine Lake, Ashland Dam, Twin Lakes, Brazeau trout pond, Brazeau River, Nordegg River, Cold Creek, Owl Creek, Baptiste River, Chambers Creek.

Bannerman, who plans to seek another year as president of the club, says the meeting will look at a six per cent fee increase and elect a new executive. Membership in the golf club climbed to 550 last summer.

"It went up because of the new clubhouse," Bannerman says.

The interest is expected to continue this year because of the new things happening at the club.

Arrows win title

For the second straight year and the third time in the last four years the Arrows have won the playoff title in the Drayton Valley Recreation Hockey League.

The Arrows downed the Blues 3-1 Sunday night to win the best-of-three final 2-1 in games.

The Arrows, league champs with an impressive 28-2 win/loss record lost the opening game of the finals by a 2-1 count, but roared back to even things with a 5-1 decision.

Edmonton jr. 'B' champs

The Edmonton Warriors downed Wainwright Blizzards 8-2 Sunday to win the Alberta junior 'B' hockey title.

The Central Alberta representatives, the Rimby Weststars, failed to make the playoffs as they won just once in three games.

The Weststars lost 8-3 to the Taber Oil Kings in their opening game last Thursday night in Calgary, but came back with a 9-3 win over the Calgary Blackhawks. In their final game Saturday Rimby lost 10-5 to Wainwright.

Barrel racing

Tuftin third at Superodeo

Drayton Valley's Iris Tuftin continued her impressive showing on the professional ladies' barrel racing circuit on the weekend.

The Eldorado school music teacher, who joined the professional circuit this year after a very successful amateur career, finished third at the week-long Edmonton Superodeo.

Her combined time on two runs of 32.10 was good enough for third place behind two of the big names in the sport. Barb Lucas of Sundre won the finals with a combined time of 31.77 followed by Ruth McDougall of Nanton at 31.89.

Earlier, Tuftin placed second at Rodeo Royal in Calgary and third in her first pro ride at Medicine Hat.

Anne Lawes of Provost placed fourth with a time of 32.21 followed by Gene Hinds of Lethbridge at 32.41 and Tracy Hood of Edmonton was sixth at 32.47.

Tuftin is currently fifth in the Canadian standings. Her next stop is two weeks away in Lloydminster followed by Saskatoon and Red Deer.

In Superodeo finals Saturday Larry Robinson of Innisfail won the calf roping with a time of 26.9 on three head; Wacey Cathey of Big Springs, Texas won the bull riding; Brad Ojemundson of Watford City, North Dakota is the saddle bronc champ; Vern Smith of Calgary won the steer wrestling and Chuck Simonson of Montana won the bareback event.

Peewee hockey

Wide West nine lose in shootout

Wide West didn't win the Drayton Valley Royal Canadian Legion peewee hockey tournament last weekend but their effort didn't go unnoticed.

After chalking up a 2-1 win/loss record in round robin play, Wide West with only nine players, dropped an 8-6 decision to Mayerthorpe in a shootout.

In the battle of the undefeated clubs, Edson hammered Evansburg 9-2 with captain Stephen Krause putting on a one-man show with a six-goal performance.

Wide West qualified for a playoff as they defeated the DV Elks 11-7 in their first game, lost 5-4 to Edson but rebounded with an 8-1 win over Stony Plain. Mayerthorpe, with an identical 2-1 record opened the three-day weekend tourney with an 8-2 win over Edmonton, defeated HI-West of Drayton Valley 2-1 and lost 3-0 to Evansburg.

The final between Mayerthorpe and Wide West was as exciting as a minor hockey game could be. The teams were tied 5-5 after regulation play and 6-6 after three players from each team engaged in the first round of shootout. Mayerthorpe put the game away in the second shootout as they scored on two of three chances while Wide West was held scoreless.

Troy Fisher led Mayerthorpe with three goals while Yuri Prevychas adding two including the shootout winner.

Mark Hansen led a tired Wide West crew with three goals and one assist. David Anderson added two goals and Matt Hunter added the other.

Brock Franklin was selected as Wide West's defensive player in the final with the offensive award going to Mike Barton.

Danny Thompson, representing the Drayton Valley Royal Canadian Legion, presented medals to Wide West and Evansburg and trophies to Mayerthorpe and Edson.

Krause was the 'big' story in the battle of the undefeated with his six-goal performance for Edson who finished the tourney with a perfect 4-0 record. Robin Chorney had both Evansburg goals as his club trailed 2-0 after the first and 5-0 after two periods.

Golfers look to expand

The Drayton Valley Golf Club will take a serious look at acquiring additional land for another nine holes when they hold their general meeting tonight (Wednesday), 7 p.m. at the clubhouse.

President Les Bannerman says the club is optimistic about purchasing some of the airport property. There's also some other possibilities that will be discussed at the meeting.

SPORTSBEAT

Major decisions face Drayton Valley golfers and curlers this week.

The golfers meet tonight (Wednesday) to discuss plans for an additional nine holes. With a membership that reached 550 last summer, it's apparent nine more holes is a must. Land acquisition and costs are the club's biggest concern.

From all reports, president Les Bannerman and his committees have a summer sports facility to be proud of.

Curlers meet Thursday night the curtain comes down on another season with the final game of the club playdowns, awards and a general meeting.

At the meeting club members will be informed on the condition of the present rink and the costs involved in a new facility.

Early indications are that the curlers may look at re-building at West Valley Park. If that's their decision, a new rink could be ready in two years. If the decision is to re-build on the downtown site it will mean missing a year of curling.

There has been a lot of talk behind-the-scenes about a new curling facility at West Valley Park. Groups who have poured money into that area feel that a building would be a big addition.

Members of the Evergreen Shooting Club have a big meeting next Monday at Lodgepole when they discuss amalgamation of the two shooting clubs. It sounds like a good marriage. The Lodgepole club has the land and the Evergreen group have access to finances.

Look for the AJHL final to go in seven games. The teams are tied 1-1 in games after two weekend games. Sherwood Park Crusaders defeated Red Deer Rustlers 3-2 Sunday afternoon after the Rustlers won the opener last Friday night 5-4 in triple overtime. That game started at 6 p.m. and ended about 12:30 a.m.

Word has it the Drayton Valley Blades junior 'B' hockey club will hold their windup April 27.

Soccer kids in Drayton Valley are urged to register Thursday as uniforms must be ordered next week. Registration will be held between 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. at the Amoco Safety Hall.

Meeting Thursday

Curlers consider new rink

The fate of the Drayton Valley curling rink will be discussed at a general meeting tomorrow (Thursday) night.

The meeting will follow the final game of the club championships and awards.

"The question of the new rink and the life expectancy of the present facility will be put to the membership," explained president Alex Salfi.

"If the members say yes, it must be a total club effort," Salfi remarked.

According to curling rink people Salfi has already talked with, a new rink could be operational in two years if work was started immediately.

If the curling club decides to go ahead with a new rink, they will likely look at West Valley Park.

"If we were to build there, the building could be used year-round," Salfi says.

On the other hand, if the members decided to re-build on the present site, it would mean missing a winter of curling.

The final game gets underway at 7 p.m. The meeting will not include the elections of a new executive.

Drayton Valley and Lodgepole

Gun clubs to amalgamate

The 75-member Evergreen Shooting Club that has been without a range for the past year, hopes to join forces with the club at Lodgepole.

Evergreen president Hal Meeks plans to attend an April 8 meeting with the Lodgepole club to discuss amalgamation.

Lodgepole, which boasts a membership of 30 shooters have their own range.

Meeks is confident that once the amalgamation is complete and the two clubs generate their interests in one direction, membership in the Evergreen club could climb to 200.

The club has been involved in a 'red tape' session with the County of Leduc over land along the North Saskatchewan River. They lost the use of that land when the county lifted their development permit.

Meeks says it's still the intention of the Drayton Valley based Evergreen Shooting Club to approach the County of Leduc over the possibility of using the river area for archery.

Town plans more tennis courts

Two new tennis courts are expected to be ready for the upcoming season in Drayton Valley. The courts will be situated on top of the town's new 800,000 gallon water reservoir near the hospital.

Two courts near the Park Valley indoor swimming pool will also be available.

Three new ball diamonds at West Valley Park will be available this season along with two diamonds at the Frank Maddock High School.

Depending on the weather, teams are expected to take to the fields for practice sessions this month with most leagues starting May 1.

Stony Plain to re-join soccer league

Eight teams will make up the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League this summer.

Stony Plain, who dropped out half-way through last season are returning, along with a new entry from Edson. Other teams in the senior men's soccer loop include Hinton, Whitecourt, Mayerthorpe, Spruce Grove, Sundance and Cessara of Drayton Valley.

According to league president Simon Kelly the league is looking at a two division format or a 14-game schedule. That decision will be made at an upcoming league meeting. The league is expected to start league play in mid-May.

Cessara hold their first indoor workout tomorrow (Thursday), 9 p.m. at the Rec Plex.

Problems recognized 'for years'

Plans developed for arena

Four plans have been developed to resolve the absence of adequate washroom facilities in the Centennial Civic Arena in Drayton Valley.

Two of the four dressing rooms in the 18-year-old facility don't have toilets or showers. It's the same situation in the referee's room.

A couple of the plans call for the installation of toilets and showers in the two dressing rooms or to go with a complete new front on the arena.

"We've recognized the problem for years," recreation director

Dennis Woolsey says.

"We did some planning two years ago but the indoor swimming pool came along and that shelved our arena plans," Woolsey added.

The town hopes to do something about the unhealthy situation before the start of the 1985-86 season.

Organizing big part of Pasula's life

Organizing has been a big part of Merv Pasula's seven years in Drayton Valley.

The area foreman for TransAlta Utilities is just coming off serving as chairman of the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce first-ever winter carnival. "We will be recommending to the chamber executive to go with the carnival again next year," Pasula says.

Pasula says the organizing committee will give serious thought to making some changes for next year, such as changing the dates to earlier in the year to the possibility of extending it over a week as opposed to one weekend.

His volunteer work in the community also includes getting the Knights of Columbus organized and was one of the original members of the Pen-bins Consortium board. Pasula was a member of the separate school board and has been a director with the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce for one year.

Citizen of the Week

When he can find the time, Pasula enjoys playing golf and curling.

Irene and Don Dawson take over Drayton Valley wash facility.

Dawsons don't like big city

New business owners settle in community

Don Dawson doesn't like the big city life. So it wasn't hard to move his wife Irene and their two children to Drayton Valley at the end of December to face the excitement of owning their own business.

The Dawsons are the new owners of Keep It Clean (formerly Jet Stream) truck, rig and car wash, located two blocks south and one block north of the Mohawk station in Poplar Ridge.

The Drayton Valley newcomers spent 12 years in the Edmonton area. "I've been in the life insurance business for the past two-and-a-half years and had a lot of clients in this area," Dawson explained.

"I like the people and I like the area and I've always liked the oil patch," Dawson added.

His relationship with the oil patch involved six years as a heavy duty mechanic working on specialized equipment.

Keep It Clean is a family affair.

The facility, which is the biggest truck wash in Drayton Valley, is a 60 x 100-foot building that features eight bays and 28-foot clearances. It's a facility where the big rigs can be washed completely inside.

People

At the present time Keep It Clean is open from 7:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. but will expand those hours in the summer.

"The big rigs can be in and out in three hours," Dawson says. "At this time of year they are basically concerned with getting the salt and mud off," he added.

Dawson has made some major changes since starting the business. All the electric soap valves were changed and he's been working extremely hard to insure hot water.

The heating system at Keep It Clean is fueled by coal with a diesel backup boiler.

The Dawson's dream is simple. "We just want to make a living," Don explains.

Motion narrowly passes

Funding increased

Ratification of an increase to $2.63 from $2.45 in the Yellowhead Regional Library's per capita contribution from the county was narrowly passed by the board of education March 19.

Reeve Maurice McCullagh said the library's request for increased financial support was "out of proportion."

"Is there ever going to be an end to these increases?" he asked.

The county is trying to hold the line on spending but the YRL did not appear to be doing the same, McCullagh said.

Local libraries do not recognize the county's contribution to the Yellowhead Regional Library when they ask for more money.

The local libraries "don't use them (the YRL)" to place order for books, he said. Councillors were still being asked to sign cheques for direct purchases from all over North America.

Councillor Ron Pollock, Division 1, suggested the board of education invite a representative from YRL to a future general committee meeting for a discussion of the services the library provides.

Wildlife office sponsors poster contest

National Wildlife Week in April 7-13 and the local fish and wildlife department invites Drayton Valley children in Grades 1-4 to take part in a poster contest. The theme is 'Learning about Wildlife' and the specific topic is 'The Key to Conservation — Responsible Stewardship'. Each grade in a school will be judged separately, said fish and wildlife officer Don Onofrychuk.

"There will be trophies and posters handed out to the first and second place winners."

And draws will be made in each classroom for a pocket solar calculator. "That will make it fair for the kids," he added.

"The person with the best poster in the school will get his/her name on a big trophy."

Entries and participation in the past have been good, he said.

Prizes for the contest, which has ran for the past three years, are provided by the fish and wildlife office.

Students to sing at festival

Singers from three Drayton Valley schools will take part in the 7th annual Edison Music Festival.

About 70 Eldorado school singers, including six soloists, are preparing for the event to be held April 18-19 and 22-25.

Fifty choir singers from Elementary 'B' school and the entire Elementary and kindergarten populations at St. Anthony school will attend the festival.

More than 2300 singers from places such as Whitecourt, Stony Plain and Evansburg will participate in piano, organ vocal solo, choral, handbell, recorder, instrumental solo, band, solo speech, choral speech and dance classes.

The theme for this year's music festival is 'Salute to Youth' in conjunction with this, International Youth Year.

In total, the number of festival entries is 626, with an increase in piano, vocal and dance entries and a decrease in speech and band entries.

The highlight of the event will be the final concert on April 26 where scholarships and trophies will be awarded.

Drive-in closed for good

It appears that Drayton Valley will not have a drive-in theatre this summer.

Tom Hutchinson of

Edmonton, owner of the drive-in on the east side of Drayton Valley, says he has no intentions of doing anything. The drive-in closed last summer when the wind blew down the

Load restrictions curb sulphur transport

By Phil Courterelle

Dome Petroleum Ltd. will abide by Parkland County's load restrictions rather than provide a $500,000 letter-of-credit to secure special permits during the annual spring ban.

Officials from Dome approached county council March 21 requesting permission to exceed the 90 per cent load restriction on secondary roads #20 and #21, which went into effect Wednesday (April 3). The oil and gas company made the request in order to maintain shipments of sulphur to a rail terminal at Warburg.

Acting in part on a recommendation from the county public works department, council granted the request on condition a letter-of-credit be supplied to cover possible damage.

Although the request for a bond was not unusual — at least one other local oil company has provided one in the past — the amount was.

"I was surprised at that amount ($500,000)," county public works manager Ed Webber said Monday. The county department had recommended only a $250,000 bond be requested from Dome.

According to Reeve Maurice McCullagh, however, the amount was doubled to insure the high cost of road repairs could be met if damage did occur.

The annual spring ban allows trucks to carry only 90 per cent of their maximum load capacity to protect the road surface. As the frost leaves the ground, the surface becomes unstable and more susceptible to damage.

Notices were expected to be posted as of April 2 and the ban is expected to last until about May 15. Dome had made the request to keep its transfer of liquid sulphur from its West Pembina plant to a terminal in Warburg going at 100 per cent but the oil company will respect the load ban and work at 90 per cent, Lyle Hammond said Monday.

The West Pembina plant currently has no facility for "blocking" or solidifying the elementary sulphur, taken from hydrogen sulfide gas, he said.

Youth and adults to pay

User fees proposed

User fees for ball and soccer groups using facilities at West Valley Park in Drayton Valley are expected to become a reality later this month.

The recreation board will hear a presentation at their April 10 meeting suggesting a $1.50 fee for youth and $3 for adult teams using sports facilities during the week.

According to recreation director Dennis Woolsey the user fee, as it is being proposed, will not include weekend and tournament events.

The fees are only expected to generate $2,000 toward the department's $90,000 parks budget. The department also spends 80 per cent of their time on parks maintenance.

"We have to be fair to all users," was how Woolsey defended the low fees.

"It's time the taxpayers were not burdened with the costs," Woolsey added.

Theatre group offers new play

Heroes, villains and damsels in distress will be the order of the day starting April 11 when Drayton Valley Players present their latest production 'Pure as the Driven Snow'.

An "oldtime melodrama", 'Pure as the Driven Snow' is set in the 1900s and evolves around the eccentricities of guests staying at a country inn where a sinister con man tries to bilk the inn's naive owners out of their life savings and steal the heart of Purity, the traveller-cum housemaid.

Aside from intricate plots and a large cast, 'Pure as the Driven Snow' involves audience participation, where patrons can "boo the villain and cheer the hero," says first-time director Bill Ruhland.

"You'll have actors and actresses reacting with the audience," he says.

The play is currently rehearsing at Frank Maddock High School and Ruhland says enthusiasm is running high.

"Everyone is raring to go, the enthusiasm is really there," he says of the approximately 50 people involved in the production, from actual cast members to support staff.

A veteran of numerous small-theatre productions in Oliver, British Columbia, Ruhland appeared in Drayton Valley Players' 'The Hand that Cradles the Rock' a December.

'Pure as the Driven Snow' premieres at the Rec Plex Theatre Thursday April 11 and runs until April 13.

Chamber gearing up for Hire-A-Student

The Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce is expecting 'big things' from their hire-a-student campaign this summer.

"Employers are more aware of the service. They're using us more," explains Alex Salfi, the chamber's hire-a-student director.

The Drayton Valley hire-a-student program had its best year ever last summer when more than 200 students found jobs through the program. Denise Mohr, the chamber's new secretary will be the co-ordinator this year when the program swings into gear in May.

"The demand was pretty well met last year," Salfi says.

"The program was able to place students in casual situations, jobs that spanned 10 days to two weeks and some even found jobs for the summer," Salfi added.

Job seekers last year found employment in farming, construction, babysitting to grass cutting.

Most of the jobs are filled by students between 14 and 21 years of age.

"Quite a few students come home for the summer and need jobs," Salfi says.

Starting in May, the chamber secretary will handle student demands and also visit employers in the community about possible employment. Employers considering summer employment are asked to call the chamber office at 542-7078.

Salfi also wants to get a six-member committee to co-ordinate the program. Anyone in Drayton Valley interested in assisting the program is asked to call Alex Salfi at 542-4025.

Ratepayer embarrassed

County staff outnumbered at meeting

The annual meeting of electors held at Meridian Heights School in Stony Plain on March 23 was an embarrassment for one of the ratepayers who had asked that it be held.

Lorne Proudfoot, chosen chairman for the education and municipal portions of the meeting, said he was ashamed more people hadn't attended.

County councillors, board of education trustees and county staff outnumbered the electors at each session by at least three to one.

The meeting was almost adjourned at 11:30 a.m. because all reports and discussion of financial statements had been completed.

Councillors Ron Pollock and George Sewell asked that adjournment be postponed till 1 p.m., however, because they said ratepayers may have been under the impression the municipal portion of the meeting would be held in the afternoon.

When no more electors showed up following the lunch recess the meeting came to an end.

County Administrator Otto Schuster said reports from all the municipal departments weren't part of the agenda because a large turnout and a lot of questions had been anticipated.

The last annual meeting in the county had been held on April 3, 1976, in Drayton Valley.

During the education portion of the meeting Trustee Cec Dawkins asked for a vote of thanks in appreciation for the work staff had done throughout the year.

At the end of the municipal portion, Proudfoot asked for a vote of thanks to county staff and councillors.

He said he appreciated the way county officials had handled any of his questions during the year without evasion.

Mill rate increase

The Town of Rocky Mountain House has announced plans for nine-tenths of one mill increase to cover municipal operations. The increase will add approximately $20 to property owners' tax roll.

Spruce Grove and Stony Plain town councils plan to meet April 9 to discuss the possibility of amalgamation.

School budget up taxes

Landowners at Whitecourt are faced with a hike of $20 to $25 to cover public school costs this year.

Drive for nursing home

Bashaw and area residents plan to apply pressure to the provincial government for their own nursing home. At the present time 27 Bashaw and area oldtimers are in nursing homes in Camrose, Stettin, Ponoka, Lacombe and Red Deer.

Base to close

Canadian Forces Base Penhold, located just south of Red Deer, will close in 1986. The minister of national defence announced the closure of several radar stations on the outdated Cadin-Pinecroft Line including CFB Penhold, which employs about 65 military personnel. The personnel will be re-assigned to other CFB bases.

High speed train stop

The City of Red Deer is being considered for a possible stop on the proposed high speed train link between Edmonton and Calgary. The province, which has completed a study on the project, says costs will be more than $500 million. The province says they will put up part of the construction costs for the line.

Cost of hiring consultants shared

County council and the board of education have agreed to equally share the cost of hiring consultants to study the placement of employee job descriptions on a salary grid.

The municipality employs 105 support personnel and has a board of education 107.

Administrator Otto Schuster says the study was proposed in response to employee unrest with the present system of in-house job classification. Council decided there might be some justification for the complaints and will hire consultants to conduct an independent study to find out if this is the case.

Easter most meaningful religious holiday

By Irvin I. Reich

Of all the religious holidays, I believe Easter would be the most meaningful to one's life. Easter may be celebrated by people in many different ways. To some people, Easter is just another day off from work, or a time to visit friends and relatives.

As you read this, think back to the years of childhood, when we would hear many different and interesting events concerning Easter.

Those of you that would be in my age range, not having a TV to rob your creative mind and times, would remember Good Friday as a quiet, sincere holy day when only the very necessary things were done, Saturday being the day before Easter, everybody was busy boiling and decorating eggs. Writing and decorating designs with wax, then popping them into various color dyes. Very few candies or chocolate things were bought from the store. Before going to bed late Saturday night, parents would be busy hiding the goodies and eggs in nicely decorated boxes or baskets. Easter morning was an exciting time for the kids, each searching for their treats. After which even families that throughout the year had not gone to church would be putting on their Sunday best, the ladies wearing their new Easter hats, and off to church they would go.

After church, either inviting or being invited over for dinner with all this activity, the true meaning of Easter can be forgotten.

The first Easter was a day of victory, Christ being crucified, with all hope gone by his friends and followers, but then rejoicing as they learn He's alive and risen.

Jesus said, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive forevermore. Amen; and have the keys of hell and death." (Rev. 1:18)

Though Satan would like us to forget the real meaning of Easter, let's not forget that Jesus has the keys of death and Hell.

After Jesus rose from the grave He said: "Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead on the third day: And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations beginning at Jerusalem (Luke 24:46-47).

Now Jesus paid the price, all we need to do is repent of our sins. Let Him change your life this Easter!

Make Easter the beginning of your happiness.

Through fundraising

Scout Hall getting back on their feet

Although a revenue shortfall nearly crippled the Drayton Valley Scout Hall Association two months ago, it's begun to rejuvenate its depleted coffers through fundraising efforts and financial help from the local Royal Canadian Legion and Elks Association.

"We're getting back on our feet. Through the help of the Legion and Elks, we're getting back to normal," hall association president Wayne Terry says.

The association, which is a separate organization from the scout and guide groups using the hall, had difficulty meeting high utility payments during the long winter season after expected rental booking failed to materialize.

"Traditionally, September to December is a good time of the year for rentals," Terry said, but rentals "did not start as early (as previous years) and there were not as many."

"It costs us a lot to keep the place open (approximately $500 per month) and unfortunately we were not able to rent the hall out enough to make money."

Although the hall accommodates several scout and guide orientated groups, it does not derive revenue from their use, Terry said.

"The kids involved are charged a registration fee (for scouts or guides) but none of that money goes towards that hall. Some people don't understand that. Not a penny comes from them unless we ask for it. We don't depend on their funds and don't want to generally."

"We try to make the thing pay for itself."

The association received grants from the Legion and Elks earlier this spring and are now planning regular bingo nights to raise funds.

"We're hoping to get enough funds together to hold our own bingos," Terry said, explaining the association has been given the use of the Legion's equipment and facilities for the time being. "We're hoping to earn enough money a month to cover the costs of utilities."

The association, which includes four others aside from Terry, also organized a pancake breakfast last weekend as a fundraiser. The event, held during a mite hockey tournament, attracted 340 to 350 people and netted about $600 for the association.

The group may also try and improve its rental situation by adding a permanent bar facility and upgrading the grounds surrounding the building.

The association undertook major renovations several years ago which included better washroom facilities, storage areas, fire alarms as well as interior improvements.

"Back a few years ago the place was a mess," Terry admits, "and there was a stigma attached to the Scout Hall that it was a dump. But we did spend an awful lot of volunteer time and many, many dollars fixing it up."

Exercising—where to start

By Linda Giroux
TIB-5071

"I should have done my exercises after my Gordie was born," my friend remarked sadly after telling about the latest diet prescribed by her doctor.

I looked at her in alarm. Her Gordie is 19. I could just see myself putting off getting into shape month after month, year after year. My baby is six months old already.

The hard part about any exercise program is where to start when everything is beginning to sag or to bulge. I decided that for now the tummy was most necessary.

Sit ups are still a basic, but the experts have new ideas for an old exercise. Straight leg sit ups are no longer recommended because of the risk of lower back injury, especially if you are not in top shape. A full sit up is considered a waste of energy since the maximum benefit is derived from the first third of the way up. Also, if you are doing full sit ups rapidly with your knees bent, there is the possibility of bumping your nose on your knee.

For a sit up, begin laying on your back with your knees bent. From this starting position, you can vary in style. For a fitness-type sit up, interlace your fingers behind your head. Raise your head, shoulders and upper back, lower, and repeat as many times as possible up to 50. Be sure that your elbows are kept in line with your head. By keeping your hands behind your head, you reduce strain on the back of the neck.

For a yoga-type sit up, place your hands on your upper thighs. Curl one-third of the way up, walking the fingers toward the knees until they are resting lightly on the knees. Hold the partial sit up for 10 or more seconds, up to a minute. Lower, and repeat three to five times.

Abdominal muscles firm quickly. If at first you can raise only your head and shoulders, persist. Even that effort will have results.

Women's Institute invited to Winterburn

By Edith Deby

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held March 26 at the home of Colleen Dixon with seven members present.

Betty Bouck read an Easter prayer composed by herself.

President Winnie Hammerlind read an interesting excerpt from the Country Women of the World on life and customs of the people of Cheju Island, which is 86 minutes by air from Seoul, South Korea. It is one of the poorer provinces of Korea with a population of 50,000.

Florence Romano reported that the Easter ham raffle is progressing quite well.

The Drayton Valley WI has been invited to Winterburn to celebrate that branch's 7th anniversary.

The constituency conference will be held in Calgary April 24.

Colleen Dixon, as convener for industry, had arranged for Dale Zinke of Snow Geese, a manufacturing concern based in Wildwood, to be guest speaker.

Zinke's company is engaged in making furniture from lumber sawed from white poplar.

He gave explicit instruction about the procedures to be followed in starting a new company. He also spoke of funding and financial support available. He stressed the importance of such a project in a community where unemployment is a problem.

The kindergarten chair, doll cradle, bench and spice rack Zinke brought to illustrate the work done by Snow Geese was greatly admired for the beauty of the wood and the professional appearance of the finished product.

For roll call a summary was made of the industries operating within a 100-mile radius of Drayton Valley.

The April meeting will be held at the Deby home on the 30th. New members and visitors are always welcome.

Interest in fitness growing

By Jo-Anne Hall

Illustration: Emma Cummings

As elsewhere in Canada, Albertans are exhibiting an ever increasing interest in their health. The increased interest in fitness is shown by the number of options available in the fitness area — aerobics, racquet sports, skiing, swimming, biking, running, the list goes on and on.

Concurrently there is an increased interest in nutrition and fitness. People are beginning to realize that there is a relationship between food habits and health and fitness. The slogan for the March Nutrition Month is "Eat Well, Live Well".

How's your nutrition fitness I.Q.? Take this short quiz and see:

- 1) Snacks can be nutritious?
- 2) Well fed means the same as well nourished?
- 3) If the food you eat provides more energy than you burn up, the excess will be stored as body fat?
- 4) It is important to eat breakfast?
- 5) It takes more energy to jog one mile than walk one mile?

True or false?

1) True

2) True

3) True

4) True

5) True

Answers

1) True — Snacks can be nutritious provided they contain essential nutrients, contribute to ideal body weight, and do not rob the appetite for the next meal.

2) False — Being well fed on food of low nutrient value is not the same as being well nourished on foods which contain energy along with nutrients.

3) True — To maintain weight the energy from food must equal the energy burned.

4) True — Breakfast is important because it breaks the fast from the night before and helps you to be less irritable and more efficient.

5) False — The same amount of energy is expended whether walking or jogging one mile. When moving the same weight the same distance, speed doesn't matter. If you jog 30 minutes, you will cover more distance and burn more energy than if you walked 30 minutes.

If you start revamping your lifestyle now, you may be ready for bathing suit weather.

We have the right to limit quantities

From here...

By Frank Ryan

Smell, discolor, a brown ring around the sink or bathtub are things usually associated with the water during the spring runoff.

But that isn't the case in Drayton Valley. Richard Embury, plant operator at the town's water treatment plant located along the North Saskatchewan River, is very proud of the water.

"I drink it too," he explained.

"Changes in the water due to spring runoff has never been a problem in Drayton Valley," Embury added.

The ice in the North Saskatchewan is expected to start breaking up in mid-April.

"That will result in a mad shuffle around here for a day or so because the water comes in like mud," Embury says.

"But, we'll adjust the filters and everything will be fine. People in town won't notice anything," he says.

The water treatment plant, which will see some new equipment come on stream in '86, takes in 500,000 gallons per minute. It goes through a cleaning process in the plant before going into two town reservoirs. The town of Drayton Valley has a million-gallon capacity thanks to the addition of their new 800,000 gallon reservoir near the hospital which assists the 200,000 gallon reservoir downtown under the water tower.

Residents of Drayton Valley use about 450,000 gallons of water per day.

Part of Embury's daily routine at the plant are checks for PH, fluoride, chlorine and alkalinity.

"There are certain limits we operate under. We have to make sure everything's right as reports must be sent into the government," Embury explained.

Sixty samples per year are sent to the Department of Health at the University of Alberta to test for bacteria. These water samples are taken from commercial and residential locations in town.

Environmental people also do checks at the plant.

But, Embury's responsibilities don't stop there.

In case the plant ever has to be shut down, a Drayton Valley residence must be notified as a member of their family is on a dialysis machine and water is crucial to their survival.

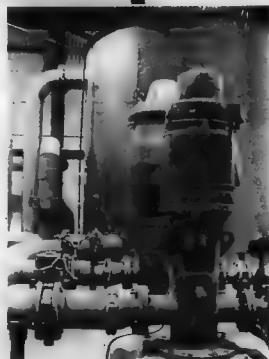

So, for the next couple of weeks Richard Embury will watch for the ice breakup in the North Saskatchewan. When it comes, that will officially be the start of spring runoff.

Plant operator Richard Embury checks out one of the tanks.

Gauges show the pressure.

New equipment is expected in 1986.

Daily checks are made.

Easter Sunday a time to wear new clothing

By Joanne Bengier

'Tis the week before Easter, and how was Easter Sunday chosen to fall on April 7 this year? By the moon, of course.

Easter Sunday is always the first Sunday after the first Full Moon following the spring equinox and this year that Full Moon falls on the 5th.

Safety check

Members of the local RCMP and the provincial Highway Patrol teamed up last week for a truck safety check stop on Highway 22 just north of Drayton Valley. No tickets were issued, just warnings for equipment violations such as lights and brakes. One rig was delayed when a large oil leak was discovered.

A Farm Wife's Almanac

by Joanne Bengier

April 3-4 find us still in second quarter and increasing and in the orderly sign of Virgo, so get that spring cleaning project begun and get the house all spiffy for Easter.

New jobs may be begun or you can start studying something new, either alone or in a group. Stock up with health foods to carry you through the holidays ahead and stock up with supplements for your animals, too.

April 5 is Full Moon and we are in the sign of Libra which favors beauty of all types. Decorate your house for Easter and design fancy Easter eggs and Easter baskets. You have never been more creative.

Any animals born these two days are fantastic show prospects for Full Moon favors healthy animals and Libra favors beauty. Babies born with the moon in Libra could well win beauty contests one day.

Good Friday is a time for staying at home and fasting, but this year it falls at a time when the moon favors partying.

April 7-8 we will be in the water sign of Scorpio and it is quite proper for Easter, the time of renewal, to fall under this most fruitful of signs.

The Easter bunny was seen by the pagans as an emblem of fertility and new life. Easter eggs held the germ of life and everywhere we see new birth as we welcome spring.

Any animals born these two days should make splendid breeding stock and if babies are born Easter Day, the saying is "He who is born of Easter morn shall never know want or care or harm."

Whose lucky week is it?

Sagittarius remain our lucky gamblers this month and Nov. 30 to Dec. 7 are our luckiest birthdays until the Full Moon occurs on the 5th after which the very luckiest speculators are born between Dec. 8 and 16. The lucky number to remember in all things financial is 8.

Important days this week

Good Friday occurs on April 5 and if you eat hot-cross buns on Good Friday your house will be protected from fire for the coming year, or so the oldtimers said.

April 7 is Easter Sunday and those who watch the sun come up will see it dance for joy and will be especially blessed during the coming year.

It is unlikely not to wear at least one new item of clothing on Easter Sunday and the luckiest decoration of all which one can wear is a bird dropping on one's hat.

It was once believed that eating Easter eggs on Easter Sunday would keep children healthy for the coming year.

Construction continues

The scene changes almost daily as construction workers make rapid progress on the 17-unit senior citizen's apartments being built on the site of the old Drayton Valley Hospital. The apartments are expected to be complete early in 1986 and are joint effort between the Alberta Mortgage and Housing Corp. and the federal Canada Housing and Mortgage Corp.

New signs set up

New parking signs have been erected in Drayton Valley lanes.

Engineer Manjeet Saran says five new 'No Parking in Lane' signs were erected during the past week.

The signs are actual replacements for signs that went missing.

Saran says the town uses between 100 and 150 signs a year due to increased vandalism.

Trade fair

Early response good

Response has been excellent for the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce second annual trade fair scheduled for early September.

Kristina Little reports that two-thirds of the 80 booths have been spoken for.

"Most people wanted back after last year," Little remarked.

"I'm not surprised at the response," she added.

Little, who is co-chairperson for the trade fair with Martin Prentice, is excited about the early start. Last year the organizing committee only had three and a half months to organize the trade fair which is held in the Centennial Civic Arena and the curling rink.

Retired minister writes book

A former Drayton Valley minister has just released his autobiography in book form.

A.F. Bert Irving, who held his first service at the Church of God on Sept. 5, 1971, was in Drayton Valley last week on a book promotion tour.

The 93-page book, available from Shirley Snell at the Church of God or Johnson Realty, was a year in the making.

Today, the Irvings live at Blackfalds. Irving, who has spent more than 40 years in the ministry, was also a spare school bus driver during his 11 years in Drayton Valley.

During his stay in Drayton Valley Irving wrote a column in The Western Review.

His book talks about his life with one chapter dedicated to the stay in Drayton Valley.

"When we arrived in 1971 most of the streets were paved and had sidewalks. Several new subdivisions were opened and built up during our stay. I soon realized it was impossible to keep the town clean. Mud scattered on the pavement turned to dust after a few hours of sunshine," he described in the book.

Author Bert Irving was in town promoting his autobiography last week.

Do you want to save money? Increase your purchasing power? Join one of the 968 co-ops in Alberta. If they can't meet your needs, form one. A co-op attempts to provide goods or services at lowest possible cost. As a member, you may also receive a share of any profits generated by the co-op.

A co-op is a business, jointly owned and controlled by its members. Formed to meet a common need, it is organized by a group of people who pool their available resources to improve their economic situation.

To become a member, you buy a share or shares in the enterprises, often at minimal cost or pay an annual membership fee. You may then participate equally in all privileges and responsibilities with other members as long as you qualify for membership. Together you control the direction of the co-op and mutually share the benefits of the co-operative activity.

It's your choice! You can purchase most of your needs from a co-op owned and operated by the people of your community and as a member, share in the profits earned by your co-op, helping to keep this money in circulation where you live. You can also have control over the operation of your co-op, by providing feedback and electing representatives to the board of directors.

However, the savings you enjoy from co-op membership have a cost. Your active involvement, along with the other members, is essential for a co-op to flourish. You have an opportunity and responsibility to influence decisions by attending meetings and standing for election to the board. You may also give information, suggestions, or feedback to the co-op management or board.

A co-op does not need to be large to be successful. Rather, its success depends on loyal and informed members, ongoing teamwork (usually voluntarily!) and solid planning and leadership.

The size of a co-op depends on its purpose and the number of people who use its services.

Although co-ops may operate different businesses, each one follows the six co-operative principles: generally open membership, democratic control, limited return on investment, surplus earnings usually being refunded to members, co-op education and co-operation among co-ops.

A co-op may be formed to operate almost any type of business: consumer, producer, marketing, service, or financial. The most familiar one is the retail (consumer) co-op which often has many departments: food, furniture, hardware, clothing, dry goods, home improvement, cafeteria, bakery and service station.

For more information about co-operatives contact Alberta Consumer and Corporate Affairs at 427-5782.

Doctors have clothes encounters

By Dr. Bob Young

I can think of only two places where people are asked to remove their clothes by strangers, and respond by doing so. One is the burlesque theatre, the other is the doctor's office. While I profess no expertise regarding the former, I have reached some conclusions about patients' willingness to strip "for the doctor".

These comments are, of course, those of a male physician. A woman doctor might have a different tale to tell.

Female patients are much less reticent about removing all their clothes than males. The ladies apparently save their modesty for social occasions and are generally willing to bare it all for their physical examinations. Teenage girls are an exception worthy of note, but even in this group the age of shyness is dropping.

Men are different. A few minutes after the nurse has asked them to strip they may have succeeded in removing their jackets and, with luck, their ties. Getting a man to remove his trousers can be a challenge. Have you ever tried to check for a hernia through a pair of jockey shorts?

I casually asked one woman patient (who was dressed) how much she weighed. She promptly, completely ignoring my presence, stripped naked and stood on the scales. Anything to get a low reading!

Both men and women who know they have beautiful bodies are readily willing to disrobe to show themselves off. Unfortunately, perhaps, these people are generally very healthy, and do their thing in locations other than doctors' offices.

Some women have an ulterior motive. I remember making a house call for a colleague and being met at the door by a beautiful, questionably innocent, nude young lady. It's the only time I felt obligated to ask a patient to get dressed before I examined her.

Examining the human body is an important part of the physician's job. It is best done with the patient undressed. Women have accepted this. Men, it appears, have yet to be convinced.

Evansburg overpass causes concern

The Evansburg-Entwistle Chamber of Commerce hopes to convince the provincial government to change its plans to install a $9.6 million overpass at Entwistle.

The chamber feels the overpass will deal a severe blow to the already marginal business and trade in the area.

It is also the group's intention to attract more business to the area.

The Evansburg-Entwistle chamber is very busy preparing for the summer with a study into a possible 16-page brochure on the area and the installation of trailers for a tourist information booth.

The chamber has also set a date (tentative) of May 11 and 12 for their annual trade fair.

Gordon Lanford has been re-elected president.

Additions scheduled

Renovations planned at Black Gold Inn

Major renovations are being planned for the Black Gold Inn.

And, expansion of Drayton Valley's 100-bed hotel may not be that far away as the owners have purchased the land between the Black Gold and the Aspen Motor Inn.

Renovations at the Black Gold include changes in the tavern, restaurant and main lobby plus some exterior changes.

"We're planning a more open bar with some general upgrading," explained general manager Lance Grosco.

A bigger bar will be part of the change complete with brass rails.

Another addition to the bar will be the introduction of English draft beer, draft Heiken (a Dutch beer) and Guinness ale.

Plans are to close the tavern down for a week at the end of April, but that depends on business.

The big change in the restaurant will see new carpet with the main lobby to include an office and a new computer system.

A 20-foot storage shed will be added to the back of the hotel to accommodate the receiving area.

Grosco has plans to dress up the hotel with green trim, fencing and an outdoor patio.

Trace-mineralized salt best choice for the local areas

By Doug Walkey

Last week we discussed the different types of salt, so let's consider their use in pasture situations.

Number one job is to select our salt. My choice would be a trace-mineralized salt with or without selenium. If you can't feed selenium in some other way this may be your only choice.

Why a trace-mineralized salt? Briefly, blue salt lacks copper and zinc we need in balmy Drayton Valley. Red salt lacks copper, zinc and cobalt and is nearly as expensive. White salt lacks all of the above as well as having no iodine, a sure way to decrease production. Finally the "natural trace-mineral" salts are unreliable. That's right, the nutrient content varies greatly, and the amounts of nutrients like copper and zinc are inadequate to meet the needs of our livestock. These other salts are really only slightly cheaper and lack the extra goodies our cattle need.

Now we have chosen our salt, how do we feed

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5368

it? Well, every farmer will have his preference and I have mine. For both pasture and hay rations I recommend feeding a mixture of trace-mineralized salt and 18:18 mineral. These are fed loose, mixed about two-thirds salt and one-third mineral.

Put the salt/mineral mix close to the ground

so calves have access to it. That will reduce the calves' tendency to eat dirt a bit, too.

There are a couple of reasons for using this mix. First, if you have been following this column, it is nutritionally sound. It meets almost all of our local deficiencies, including phosphorus, which our pastures are notoriously short of.

Secondly, in order to feed this as a mix you can't use blocks. I know blocks are more convenient, but we are talking cattle production here. A cow has to spend a long time licking a block to meet her salt needs, and she may never lick a mineral block! Young animals are even less likely to stand around a salt block and their needs are even higher. With a loose salt/mineral mix all the needs are met and quickly.

As for expense, well let's look at some figures: Using trace-mineralized salt is more expensive, about $1 to $2 per cow per year more than say blue salt. Consider a mere five per cent increase in calf weight or 27.5 lbs for a 550 lb calf. Market prices for calves have been down about 85 cents/lb lately. Now, 27.5 lb at 85 cents is about $23.37 return to profit. Not bad at all.

April 9 Anglican Church meeting cancelled

To open the Anglican Church Women's March meeting prayers were said, followed by a discussion on several interesting articles from the "Living Message" and the "Anglican Churchman".

During the business session it was agreed the group would make money donations to the following: Emmanuel College, where priests are trained; Sorrento Anglican Church camp in B.C.; Primates World Relief Fund for help to the Third World; and the Discretionary Fund, money for our minister to use locally to help people in need.

The proceeds from the pancake supper were turned over to the church vestry.

Easter flowers for the church will be bought by the group.

A very interesting letter was read from Don and Lee Sax, who visited Drayton Valley last year and are now the lay ministers in charge at Old Crow in the Yukon. The Saxs' will be ordained to the diocese in St. Luke's Anglican Church at Old Crow on April 10, along with Ellen Bruce, age 73, an Indian lady who is called a Louchelux Holy Woman. Edith Josie, who used to write for the Edmonton Journal will be licensed as a lay-reader.

Our April 9 meeting will be cancelled as there is Confirmation services in the church, followed by a light lunch.

Bibles or prayer books are given to all those who are baptised or confirmed in All Saints Anglican Church.

Plans are underway to form a Mothers' Union in the church. Mothers' Union has been in Canada for 96 years. Its aim is to teach children Christian principles in the home, stabilise family life and protect the children.

In 1986 All Saints Anglican Church will have been in Drayton Valley for 50 years, the first recorded service held July 26, 1936. Ideas are coming forth on how to celebrate this anniversary.

The third Sunday of every month is a birthday party in the parish hall after the church service. Come and join with us in church and meet the Anglicans of Drayton Valley.

Cadets spend challenging weekend near Medicine Lake

By Shelli Carson

The community is saddened to hear of the accidental death of Raymond Marks and wishes to extend sympathy to his family.

The weekend of March 15-17 provided a challenge to the cadets of the 2561 Breton Cadet Corps when they spent their time in winter survival training in the vicinity of Medicine Lake.

Cadets R. Gibbard and B. Hellervik left Thursday to start their Journey for the Duke of Edinburgh Award — to explore, assess and evaluate the camping facilities in the area between Pendry and Medicine Lake.

They hiked more than 50 miles, carrying their food, tent and camping gear and camped in three different locations as they went along.

Friday afternoon the advance party, D. Reade, R. Mockerman, D. Dashney, I. Schmacher and W. Schumacher, left to prepare the area for the main group of cadets to be arriving later.

The training consisted of skiing, shelter building, and bivouacking under adverse conditions.

With the exception of one casualty, the exercises went off well. The sole casualty occurred when Cpl. Dashney was adding the finishing touches to the interior of his snow house and Capt. A. Bratland was ready to take a picture. The house collapsed and only Dashney's legs were visible.

The cadets returned to Breton late Sunday afternoon tired, wet, and exhausted, but happy and proud that they had proven to themselves they can cope with difficult conditions.

In recognition of the corps' high level of performance, Brigadier-general W.S. Ziegler presented his sword to be used as a 'sword of honor' by the corps. In presenting the sword, Gen. Ziegler said, "When I received the sword, it was a symbol rather than a weapon. It is a symbol that I pass it on to you — to hold it high in honor in your corps."

The regular meeting of the Breton OORP was preceded by a pot luck supper March 18 with 20 members present.

The meeting was chaired by past honored Royal Lady May Hawryluk.

The lodge will canvass the Village of Breton for the Red Cross.

The joint installation of the Breton Elks and Breton OORP will be May 4. The public is invited to attend.

The publicity chairman is to take pamphlets to the doctors' offices and health nurses' offices to help inform the public of the free services provided under the Deaf Detection Program sponsored by the Elks and the OORP.

The lodge was asked to cater to a wedding Aug. 9.

Lunch committee for April is Shirley Purday, Marg Stevenson, Fran Ekstrom and Shirley Andersen.

Faith Covenant Church is preparing for their special Easter Sunday morning program. This includes a 9 a.m. breakfast followed by the film 'Climb a Tall Mountain'. During morning worship at 11 a.m. a special Easter cantata will be performed.

Beginning March 31-May 6 (Sunday evenings) Faith Covenant Church will be showing a film series entitled 'His Stubborn Love', which speaks to the basic emotional turbulences of men and women. Showtime is 7:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to attend.

Hearing Tests Set For Drayton Valley

Electronic hearing tests will be conducted at the Drayton Valley Hotel in Drayton Valley on Thursday, April 11, 1985, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. for the Beltone Service Centre. Mr. Jim Massey, Beltone Consultant, will be there to conduct the tests.

Channels added

Since Feb. 28, cable TV subscribers in Drayton Valley have been receiving two extra American TV networks recently allowed by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC).

NBC and PBS were added to the cable system after the CRTC approved QCTV's application to offer these popular services demanded by subscribers. Both networks originate from Detroit and are received in Drayton Valley via satellite transmission.

"QCTV is using a large 28 x 16 ft.

receiver (dish) to pick up the Detroit TV signals from Canadian Satellite Communication Inc. (CANSATCOM), explains Wayne Sydor, vice president operations for the cable company. NBC (WJTV) and PBS (WTVS) are on cable channels 12 and 13, respectively.

New agricultural bill introduced at this spring session

By Shirley Cripps, MLA

The spring session is well underway now and is shaping up to be a busy one.

The minister of Utilities and Telephones has announced a three-year extension to the Natural Gas Price Protection Plan.

Approximately 75 per cent of Alberta's gas production is exported. The price protection plan relates to the 25 per cent used in Alberta.

The base objective is to shelter the 650,000 residences, the 55,000 commercial and 600 industrial users of Alberta natural gas. In 1984-85 the government budgeted $180 million for price protection benefits.

The plan ensures that consumers pay no more than 65 per cent of the Alberta Border Price for the gas cost component in their utility bills. This can be illustrated as follows:

Alberta Border Price $2.80/GJ
Transportation costs are not shielded and amount to $0.30/GJ
Provincial Support Price is 65 per cent of $2.80 $1.82/GJ

The net amount of shielding is 35 per cent and therefore amounts to $0.68/GJ

Cost of gas to the Alberta consumer $2.12/GJ
The use of metric labelling in agriculture chemicals caused the Alberta government and farmers extreme concern about the possibility of errors causing crop damage.

We're pleased the federal agriculture

MLA's Report

with Shirley Cripps

minister, John Wise, has instructed Agriculture Canada officials to amend the regulations to permit the voluntary dual-labelling (metric and imperial) of agricultural chemicals, including fertilizers and pesticides.

I've introduced a private members Bill 203, the Farming Nuisance Claim Protection Act. The purpose of the bill is to encourage agricultural production by protecting farmers from nuisance claims from neighboring landowners. While such nuisance claims have not been a major problem in the Drayton Valley constituency, I hope that the bill will send a clear message to non-farming residents that farmers have to be assured of their right to farm and that it's impossible to conduct normal farm chores without causing a little dust and smell.

I have also placed before the legislative assembly for debate, a motion urging the government to review government senior citizens housing policies and principles and to consider the establishment of a senior citizen housing review committee.

The 4-H branch of Alberta Agriculture is now accepting applications for scholarships. A total of $20,150 from a variety of sources including Alberta Agriculture, is available, and I would like to see some of it awarded to students from the Drayton Valley constituency. You can get information and application forms from your district home economist, regional 4-H specialists, or by writing the 4-H Branch, 7000-118 Street, Edmonton, T6E 0T6.

While the legislature is sitting, I can be reached in my Edmonton office during the week at 943-1843 (call toll free through Zenith 223833). My Drayton Valley constituency office is open on Mondays and Wednesdays, the number there is 542-3355. My residence number is 682-3758.

Babysitting course results good

Organizers of the six-week Alberta Safety Council sponsored babysitting course are extremely pleased with the final results.

Susan Lee, spokesman for the Drayton Valley Kinesthetics who sponsored the course, reports that 30 of 33 kids achieved a 70 per cent passing grade. Two students still have to write the test.

"I was a little worried how many would pass because the qualifying grade was so high," Lee says.

Kids passing the course are being encouraged to leave their names and phone numbers at the recreation office.

Kathy Palmer at the recreation office says a lot of people, especially newcomers to Drayton

Valley, call their office, for a babysitter reference.

The recreation office is already taking names for another six-week babysitting course to start Sept. 25.

Witnesses vital to trials

By Student Legal Services
University of Alberta

One of the most important people in any court proceeding is the witness.

Because our court system depends on an accused person having a fair trial it is important that witnesses appear in court when they are instructed to do so and be absolutely truthful when they testify.

A trial takes place between two sides. If the trial is a criminal one these sides are called the Crown and the Defense.

One side or the other will call you to be their witness depending upon what you know or witnessed.

You will, however, be questioned by the lawyers for both sides. That is, if the Crown calls you as their witness you will also be questioned in court by the defence lawyer.

Often people receive a 'subpoena' to be a witness. This is an official court order which commands you to appear as a witness. It is not merely a request.

If you receive a subpoena but do not attend court the court can issue a warrant for your arrest. You can then be arrested and charged under the Criminal Code. You may be liable to a $100 fine and/or 90 days in prison.

When the trial is regarding a Criminal Code offence a person may be subpoenaed anywhere in Canada. If you are living in Alberta and you receive a subpoena to attend a trial as a witness in Nova Scotia, you are obliged to attend.

However, you are entitled to have your travel expenses and accommodation expenses paid. This payment is usually made via the mail and by cheque.

Your employer cannot prevent you from appearing in court. However, he or she may dock wages for the time you missed while at trial. There are a few thoughts to consider regarding your court appearance.

First, the judge may exclude the witnesses from the court room. This is so the witnesses are sure to tell their stories just as they remember them without being affected by the testimony of other witnesses.

If the judge does this you must not discuss your testimony with other witnesses outside the courtroom.

When it is your turn to testify you will be sworn in by the court clerk and will be asked to take an oath. If you do not want to take an oath on the bible you may instead 'affirm' that you will tell the truth.

Generally you must answer all questions that you are asked by either lawyer. If you make an error in your testimony (for instance because you are nervous just indicate that you made an error. An honest mistake does not amount to perjury.

'Perjury' occurs when a witness deliberately gives false evidence.

Perjury is a criminal offence and anyone who commits perjury is liable to 14 years in prison.

It cannot be emphasized enough that you, as a witness, must tell the truth.

Sympathy extended

By Edith Deby

We take this opportunity to extend to Mrs. Richard Woods and her children our sincere sympathy in their loss. Richie Woods was respected for his work in school, his work for the good of the community, and the example he set for young people in his daily life. He will be missed.

At the monthly meeting of the Drayton Valley and District Historical Society president Roman Vovk expressed appreciation to the County of Parkland for their generosity in providing the society rent-free temporary quarters in the basement of their building.

Dennis Woolsey, recreation director for the town, was present to answer questions regarding correct procedures to follow in our search for permanent housing for the society. Items of historical value are being donated and more space will soon be needed. Why not support this organization by buying a membership?

Mrs. Augusta Joesting celebrated her 80th birthday March 28 at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Ted and Evelyn Tucker.

Mrs. Joesting and her late husband had three children: Martin, Evelyn Tucker and Doris Lainchbury. Now the family has grown to include grandchildren and great grandchildren.

It is more than 50 years since the Joestings came to make their home in this area, so it is understandable that many of the guests were friends of long standing.

Missy Gold hopes to head for Harvard

By Peter Meade

Missy Gold, 14, is enjoying her acting career while she can, because she figures it will only last another four years — until she graduates from high school. She then plans to give up the profession she has worked at during the past nine years.

With the money she has earned playing Katie Gail on ABC's "Benson" for seven seasons she is saving to go to college. "I plan to go to Harvard," says Missy. "I want to be a neologist, to work with premature babies."

Stephanie Kramer

Katie so she has grown up with me," says Missy. "I'm glad they're letting me get older. It feels like I've been young so long."

Missy Gold

Missy made her acting debut in the "Captains and Kings" miniseries. A year later she joined "Benson." She has a videotape library of all the series' episodes. It is better than any photo album for showing just how much she has grown.

"I like my character because they've written

HUNTRESS Stephanie Kramer goes with the trend. Two seasons ago when NBC tried to make comedy king again, she was part of the flash-in-the-pan sitcom, "We Got It Made." This season, with police dramas in full force, she is playing detective Dee Dee McCall on "Hunter."

Miss Kramer met her current co-star, Fred Dryer, when they both auditioned for roles on "Matt Houston." "He's really quite funny," she says of the former pro football player. "We get along real well and are now friends in real life. That's what makes the difference on the show."
